Customer Problem Statement Template:

Retail store managers need an effective way to determine where products should be placed to attract customers and maximize sales. However, they often rely on manual analysis and experience instead of data-driven insights. This results in poor product visibility, inefficient inventory management, and reduced profitability. Strategic Product Placement Analysis addresses this problem by analyzing sales data, customer purchasing behavior, and product performance to recommend optimal product placement strategies.

I am	Describe customer with 3-4 key characteristics - who are they?	- Brand managers, marketing strategists, and advertising agencies. - Work in industries that invest in media & entertainment marketing. - Responsible for brand visibility, audience engagement, and ROI. - Data-driven and result-oriented decision makers.
I'm trying to	List their outcome or "job" the care about - what are they trying to achieve?	- Increase brand visibility and audience engagement. - Build positive brand associations through relevant content. - Achieve higher brand recall and influence purchase decisions. - Maximize return on investment (ROI) from marketing spend.
but	Describe what problems or barriers stand in the way - what bothers them most?	- Unsure where, how, and when to place products for maximum impact. - Difficulty in selecting the right content/platform and scenes. - High cost with uncertain effectiveness and ROI. - Risk of product placements feeling forced or disrupting the content.
because	Enter the "root cause" of why the problem or barrier exists - what needs to be solved?	- Lack of data-driven insights and research on effective placements. - Limited understanding of audience behavior and context relevance. - Absence of standardized metrics to measure placement success. - Poor alignment between brand image and content context.
which makes me feel	Describe the emotions from the customer's point of view - how does it impact them emotionally?	- Frustrated due to ineffective results despite high investments. - Anxious about making wrong placement decisions. - Unsure about proving the value of product placement to stakeholders. - Concerned about potential negative audience perception.

 Customer Need: A strategic, data-driven framework for product placement that ensures the right product, in the right content, at the right time, to maximize impact, engagement, and ROI.
